

“ALL THE NEWS THAT’S NOT FIT TO PRINT...”

The Buddha Times

Packaged “Shit” Won’t Fly

Glastonbury, CT -

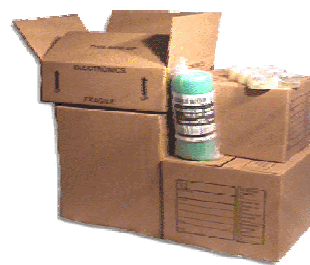

Scott Adams was not happy. He works hard. He loves his wife and kids. He is in the middle of moving his family to Boston. At 5:43pm Thursday afternoon, Mr. Adams arrived home to find that his things had been boxed up and labeled “Shit Husband Doesn’t Want to Get Rid Of” by the movers.

It seems his wife, Michelle, was asked by one of the movers to define a box of her husband’s old clothes. “That’s just shit that my husband doesn’t want to get rid of”, she stated. They all had a good laugh and the movers labeled the box as such.

Scott Adams didn’t find any humor in the situation. “Those clothes have been with me for years and years. I find it insulting to have them referred to as ‘shit’”. He continued. “I wore that shirt”, he said, pointing to an old, crusted out t-shirt “the day we won our softball championship back in ‘94”. Picking up a pair of black leather pants, he said “I wore these the day I scored with Michelle’s friend Pa...”. He paused. “Uh, nevermind”.

“It’s the principle”, he said. “I have clothes that I’ve loved for most of my life. I wouldn’t ask YOU to get rid of YOUR clothes. You throw a sweater away and the next thing you know you’re throwing your life away, too. It’s just .. it’s sickening”.

The movers, heard laughing hysterically in the background, declined to comment. “Maybe I ought to just take my ‘shit’ and live by myself in some ‘shit’ apartment so that I don’t bother my fragile wife with a bunch of useless ‘shit’ of mine”.

“It’s the principle”

eToy.com’s “Killer” Christmas

It’s that time of year again. Mom and Dad will scour the Earth for that “perfect” gift – the one that will help make Christmas a magical day for little Bobby and Cindy. The big toy stores and online retailers – Toys ‘R’ Us, FAO Schwarz and eToys.com expect to do brisk business this holiday season.

Then there is eToy.com that.. well.. has taken a slightly different approach. “We only have one toy”, said Jack Roberts, President and CEO. “We’re betting that this is the toy that kids will crave for the next 20 years. I know it’s a risk, but we think it will be a killer for us”.

The toy is the, uh... Cabbage Patch Doll.

Inside this issue:

Packaged “Shit” Won’t Fly	1
eToy.com’s “Killer” Christmas	1
Voices in Head Normal	2
Whites Demand Justice	2
Signs Point to Archie Bunker as God	2

Bet you didn’t know...

- Ham tastes good with blood
- In France, they wear underpants
- Even though it’s really cool to drop a heavy TV on an ant to watch it die, it’s very bad for the TV
- The Backstreet Boys dress themselves
- You’re not supposed to brush your teeth with a paint brush

Voices in Head “Normal” Says AMA

It seems that Sybil is much like the rest of us.

The American Medical Association announced today that it is perfectly “normal” for people to hear voices in their head. Alan Feinstein, spokesman for the AMA said... “We have researched this for years and can now officially state that there is nothing wrong with hearing voices. We’re all basically ‘fucked up’”.

The tests have been ongoing for the past 10 years. The research was conducted at mental hospitals throughout the United States. “At no time”, Feinstein says “were any of the patients in harm’s way. We made sure that they were all heavily medicated”.

To prove his point, Feinstein spoke of “Susie”, a childhood friend of his. “When I was a kid, I had a friend named Susie. My parents didn’t understand. They assumed I was insane, just because.. well, Susie wasn’t a ‘real’ person. I mean.. She was to me, you know? Not everyone may have been able to see her, but we used to have the best conversations. No.. my parents just .. assumed. They had me committed to a local hospital. Well... now I can proudly say that Susie was real. It’s society that has the problem. We have to get over this bias we have against those who hear voices. I mean, each voice is special and unique”.

In an unrelated story, the AMA will be moving their headquarters to Mr. Rogers Neighborhood.

“Normal”

Whites Demand Justice

Decatur, IL –

A rally was held here yesterday to protest the “unjust color system” that has taken over the airwaves, so say the 25,000 who showed up on a cold November morning. “We’re sick of this”, said Brian Hughes, age 34. “Haven’t you noticed, dude, how it’s always the BLACK cars that are cool... it’s always the BLACK shirt that looks good on you... it’s always the BLACK leather that people have to buy for their homes, wallets and clothes? My TV is BLACK. My VCR is BLACK. My stereo, dude – it’s all BLACK. It’s time for the white man to take back the color white – to make it fashionable again to be seen in white. This is a fucking revolution, man!!!”.

“It’s time for the white man to take back the color white”

Police were called out, though the crowds were fairly reserved. “I don’t know”, said one policeman on condition of anonymity. “I kind of like my black car, you know? I think they might be barking up the wrong tree here”.

Signs Point to Archie Bunker as God

Rome –

Religious scholars gathering here this week for a conference have let slip a possible revelation: the “fictional” TV character “Archie Bunker” may, in fact, be God. The Vatican refuses to comment at this time, though a source close to the Pope was reported to have said “It’s always been my favorite show, so.. I wouldn’t doubt the possibility”.

Scholars point to lost passages in the Bible that have God telling Job to “stifle it”, referring to Satan as “that meathead” and the Virgin Mary as .. “Gloria”. An official statement is expected next week. Attempts to reach Carol O’Conner have proved unsuccessful. The “actor” has seemingly ... vanished.

Stay tuned...

“Oh, geez”